Michigan Law
UNIVERSITY OF MICHIGAN LAW SCHOOL

WE TEACH.

"As a student at Michigan Law, I was inspired and challenged by professors like Yale Kamisar, who taught me how to think critically about the law and to advocate effectively. The independent thinking skills that they instilled in me informed my work as a trial lawyer and appellate public defender. Now, having returned to Michigan Law as a faculty member teaching criminal law and criminal procedure, I am proud and honored to have the job of teaching our students to think like lawyers with the same rigor. I strive to encourage students not only to learn the law, but also to think critically about it, and to develop problem-solving skills that will help them be successful in all their future endeavors."

Eve Brensike Primus '01 // Professor of Law

The background of the page features a low-angle, upward-looking photograph of a grand, ornate ceiling. The ceiling is composed of large, square panels decorated with intricate gold leaf patterns and green painted sections. The panels are separated by dark, carved moldings. On the right side, a large, arched window with a grid of small panes allows bright light into the space. Several circular stained glass medallions are set into the window. The overall atmosphere is one of historical grandeur and architectural detail.

WE SERVE.

"Graduating from the University of Michigan Law School has had a profound impact on my life. The quality of the legal education I received was outstanding. Just as importantly, I was exposed to examples of tremendous service and leadership in my fellow students that have both shaped my relationship with the Law School and impacted me professionally. Indeed, most of my professional life has been devoted to public service, and has included stints as United States attorney for the Eastern District of Michigan and recently as deputy mayor for the City of Detroit. I have long supported the School's efforts to maintain a diverse student body, first as a member of the Black Law Students Alliance, and, as an alumnus, as a co-founder of the Michigan Black Alumni Society and the Alden J. (Butch) Carpenter Scholarship Fund. Now, as an adjunct professor at Michigan Law, I feel the inextricable link between my life and the School more deeply than ever."

MESSAGE FROM THE DEAN

Dear friends,

Welcome back to Michigan Law! I invite you to take a few minutes to browse through our 2012 fiscal year report of giving, which covers the period from July 1, 2011, through June 30, 2012. Whether you visited the Quad just last month or haven't been back for decades, I hope you'll find the information on these pages both interesting and familiar.

The fundamental spirit of Michigan Law hasn't changed much over the past half century. Collegiality, integrity, commitment to service, exceptional training, and a firm emphasis on critical thinking remain hallmarks that set us apart — and ahead — among the world's top law schools.

But we continue to evolve with the times. We've adapted and enlarged our campus to suit today's legal education, with the construction and opening of South Hall and the Robert B. Aikens Commons, and with a Lawyers Club renovation supported by Charles T. Munger underway. We've expanded our clinical and experiential programs dramatically, adding five new clinics in the past five years. We've increased our emphasis on training lawyers for business, including the launch of the Zell Entrepreneurship and Law Program last year. At the same time, we want to ensure that our students follow the paths that suit them best, so we've extended our career planning services to help students identify strengths and needs and to guide successful career paths in government, nonprofit, academia, and business, in addition to traditional firm lawyering.

And we're doing it all with virtually no financial support from the State of Michigan. Though we have been and will continue to be responsible and efficient about containing costs, private support from alumni and friends is more important — indeed, necessary — than ever before.

On the following pages, you'll find much more information about today's Michigan Law. If you're looking for ...

- ... information about the student body, turn to page 5;
- ... information on our budget, turn to page 7;
- ... our leadership donors, turn to page 9;
- ... our Honor Roll of Donors, who make all our work possible, turn to page 11.

We owe an enormous debt of gratitude to all the alumni and friends featured in our Honor Roll. We are so proud and grateful that you've signed on as partners in Michigan Law's work. Together we will continue to train the best new lawyers around and to give people across the globe access to competent, capable advocates. Thank you so much.

Sincerely,

Evan H. Caminker
Dean and Branch Rickey Collegiate Professor of Law

P.S. We need your continued input. Please help keep the dialogue going by visiting our online annual report and offering your thoughts. It's at www.law.umich.edu/2012annualreport.

WE CONNECT.

"In my professional life, I make connections between the past and the present, between history and law. Michigan Law's program in Race, Law & History brings together faculty and scholars from Michigan and other institutions to study and analyze issues at the intersection of these lines of inquiry. Race itself can only be understood through multiple connections: to religion, culture, labor, biology, and politics, among other factors. And in turn, race and law come together to shape our ideas of home, family, marriage, gender, and sexuality. Through our program and our work, we also connect with the next generation of scholars, who will build on the base of scholarship that has established race at the core of interpreting the history of the Americas."

Martha Jones // Professor of Afroamerican and African Studies, History, and Law
Co-Director of the Michigan Law Program in Race, Law & History

SUMMER EMPLOYMENT

Over the summer of 2012, 2L students had 438 jobs in 87 cities in the United States and abroad. The employment prospects for our students in summer 2012 were much improved over summer 2011, and all current signs indicate summer 2013 will be as strong as, or stronger than, 2012.

WE ANALYZE.

"My teaching and scholarly research focus on financial services, and my methodology combines on-the-ground investigation with sophisticated analysis. To write my most recent books, Insufficient Funds (2009) and No Slack (2012), I conducted a study in which more than 1,000 Detroiters from low- and moderate-income households were interviewed about their financial lives. I learned firsthand of my interviewees' struggles to access affordable financial services and saw how the ensuing money woes meant they were ill-prepared to handle the shock of the recent financial crisis. These problems are not isolated; our entire society feels the consequences. If these families receive financial education, get better access to financial services, and are more protected as consumers, we will all benefit."

Michael Barr // Professor of Law

OUR BUDGET

Did you know? To generate the same dollars that Law School Fund donors collectively gave in fiscal year 2012 would require an additional $70 million in endowment money.

---

FY12 Operating Budget	$64,452,208
FY12 Total Gifts &amp; Pledges	$35,256,902
FY12 Law School Fund Dollars Raised	$3,146,872

---

The Law School Fund is the oldest annual fund at the University of Michigan, and gifts to the Fund impact all aspects of the Law School's mission. The Law School Fund not only supports Michigan Law's traditional strengths, but also provides seed funds that allow the Law School to stretch and grow in new directions.

WE GIVE.

"Ever since I graduated from law school, Michigan Law has been among my top philanthropic priorities. I began giving to the Law School Fund as a young associate attorney, and I continue to support that critical resource every year. As my career progressed, I was pleased to be able to provide additional support for an endowed scholarship and for the historic building expansion and renovation project. In terms of personal satisfaction, my wife, Joan, and I feel that all our investments in Michigan Law have been repaid many times. Every year we take great joy in reading our letter from the Bickner Scholar. We are simply thrilled with South Hall and the Robert B. Aikens Commons. And we know that our annual gifts to the Law School Fund will always be used for Michigan Law's highest priorities."

2012 Michigan Law Distinguished Alumni Award Recipient

WE PARTICIPATE.

"I love to get involved, and Michigan Law is a great place to do that—I've been honored to serve as president of the Law School Student Senate for two years, representing the student body in matters before the administration while finding meaningful ways to improve the day-to-day life of Michigan Law students. And I'm thrilled to have been a co-founder of one of the Law School's newest journals, the Michigan Journal of Environmental and Administrative Law, for which I'm the managing editor. I have also enjoyed giving back to the Michigan Law community by serving on the Student Funded Fellowships board, and contributing to sustainability on campus through the Environmental Law Society."

Liz Och // Law School Student Senate President, J.D. & M.S. candidate (May 2014)

WE IMPLEMENT.

"When I started as a student at Michigan Law, like all 1Ls, I learned a lot of theory and doctrine in a variety of legal fields. While I enjoyed that immensely, I was even more thrilled to follow that up by enrolling as a student attorney in the Michigan Innocence Clinic, where I had the great opportunity to translate theory into practice under the amazing guidance of Professors Bridget McCormack and David Moran, '91. Today, I work as a staff attorney and teaching fellow in the Innocence Clinic, where I supervise Clinic students who are learning the practice of law just as I did: by doing it. In my work, I continue to feel the immense satisfaction that comes from using legal knowledge and arguments to help real people, to give wrongfully convicted innocent people a new chance at life. "

Imran Syed '11 // Staff Attorney, Michigan Innocence Clinic

WE ADVOCATE.

"Before coming to law school I started a non-profit that provides quality educational opportunities to at-risk children, who as a group are perhaps the most powerless worldwide. I chose Michigan Law specifically for its superlative training in child advocacy skills. For two years, I worked in the Child Advocacy Law Clinic under the guidance of Professors Vivek Sankaran, '01, and Joshua Kay, '08, representing children in Michigan's foster care system in abuse and neglect proceedings. Now, on a two-year fellowship from the Skadden Foundation, I am working with the Alliance for Children's Rights in Los Angeles on a project I designed to help ensure that former foster youth in college become the norm, not the exception. I hope to make a difference in the lives of young people for many years to come."

WE GUIDE.

"As a clinical professor of law at Michigan Law, I see daily the value of experiential learning in gaining the problem-solving abilities, skills, and professional values necessary to the successful practice of law. While law schools in the United States have embraced clinical education, the concept has been slower to take hold in other parts of the world. So I was pleased to be part of an American Bar Association project in 2011 in which I assisted two universities in Jordan in setting up their first legal clinics. These clinics will not only provide students with a much more complete legal education, but also will provide human rights information to people who could not access it before."

WE TRAIN.

"Law firms, large corporations and small startups, private equity and venture capital firms, consulting firms and government organizations seek well-trained law graduates who understand the world of business and entrepreneurial activity that is so important to the wealth and happiness of future generations. My program, the Zell Entrepreneurship and Law Program (ZEAL), prepares graduates to act and think more like entrepreneurs, businesspeople, and experienced business lawyers. ZEAL already is having an effect on our graduates: one of my first students emailed to tell me how she is using what she learned in the ZEAL program during her first months on the job at a major national law firm. Nothing is more gratifying than knowing that you are helping students make their way and make worthwhile contributions in the real world."

Erik Gordon // Professor from Practice and Director, Zell Entrepreneurship & Law Program

WE LEARN.

"My interest in going to law school was piqued while I was an undergraduate and increased during the two years I spent volunteering with AmeriCorps after college. But coming to Michigan Law—the top school on my list—would not have been financially possible without the Law School's generous offer to be the Schwartz Scholar. Every day I feel fortunate to have the opportunity to learn from experts in every field of law, to participate in a broad range of clinics and extracurricular activities, and to stay involved in the community through the school's pro bono partnerships. Thanks to Michigan Law and the Schwartz Scholarship, I look forward to a rewarding legal career and to being part of a supportive community that extends far beyond the walls of Hutchins Hall."
